A Safeguard

The fatal rapidity with which Colds and Coughs [illegible] the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand as a household remedy, AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweitzer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—"Medical science has produced no other anodyne expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of [illegible], who says:—"I have never found, in [illegible] practice, [illegible] AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL [illegible] bronchial and pulmonary [illegible]."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular [illegible], but [illegible] of the [illegible] It is not a household in which [illegible] remedy has once been [illegible] where its use has [illegible] and the [illegible] who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or lung disease [illegible] of cure, who has not been [illegible] by it.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even acute Pneumonia, and has saved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption. It is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough.

These are all plain facts, which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

Catarrh to Consumption

Catarrh in its destructive force stands next to and undoubtedly leads on to consumption. It is therefore singular that those afflicted with this fearful disease should not make it the object of their lives to rid themselves of it. Deceptive remedies concocted by ignorant pretenders to medical knowledge have weakened the confidence of the great majority of sufferers in all advertised remedies. They become resigned to a life of misery rather than torture themselves with doubtful palliatives.

But this will never do. Catarrh must be met at every stage and combatted with all our might. In many cases the disease has assumed dangerous symptoms. The bones and cartilage of the nose, the organs of hearing, of seeing and of tasting so affected as to be useless, the uvula so elongated, the throat so inflamed and irritated as to produce a constant and distressing cough.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never failing.

Each package contains one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and an IMPROVED INHALER, with treatise [illegible].

Labor Demonstration Under the Red Flag.

MORE WILD TALK BY HERR MOST

Convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers—Jay Gould Interviewed—Eastern News Items.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Throughout the larger portion of the city to-day, all reminders that this was Easter Sunday were permitted to attract much less attention than evidences that it was a day of display for the International Workingmen's association. Streaming crimson banners and hurrying crowds of swarthy faced foreigners were far more conspicuous in the eastern half of the city than any [illegible] the resurrection of [illegible]. The [illegible] had been chosen for an eight hour demonstration under the auspices of the Central Labor union, representing the communistic element among the laboring people of the city. There was a great number of men in line, probably 3000 to 4000. Several bands of music, red banners by the score and very few United States flags.

[illegible]

[illegible] organization began gathering on Randolph street in the old Haymarket before 10 A. M. [illegible] The line of march was [illegible] At many places cars [illegible]

[illegible] participants was [illegible]. The long line of procession was thronged [illegible] but notably lacking [illegible] enthusiasm. Those in the lines however cheered and shouted for Eight [illegible] and Down with the capitalists. There was hardly a dozen banners in English in the entire [illegible] of the procession. Two or three contained [illegible] certain individuals or their manufactures, and one was as follows: "Private capital represents stolen labor." Another had the words "Eight hours per day." [illegible] here in German the words "Drink water like [illegible]," says Most, "Work [illegible]."

On the way down Madison street the driver of a wagon attempted to drive through the procession. His wagon was quickly overturned and lifted up [illegible] town in the gutter.

[illegible]

When the procession reached the lake front the various organizations, augmented by throngs of curious people, in all perhaps 10,000, gathered [illegible] two stands and listened to speeches by A. R. Parsons, Michael Schwab and a Mr. Hirasach. From one stand Parsons spoke in English, Schwab in German and Hirasach in Bohemian. On the other platform Sam Fielding, August Spies and John A. Henry harangued the multitude, Spies speaking in German and the others in English.

The speeches were all of the blood and thunder order and declared in favor of the abolition of private capital and unification of all wealth. Parson declared if starvation was forced upon the masses they would raise the banner of liberty and [illegible] and sweep away all their oppressors. Henry said that heretofore all strikes had been wrong. Men struck to walk out. They must [illegible] front and strike to walk in and throw the owners and managers out. It was better to throw out the owner of a factory than to throw out 200 or 300 workmen.

While the speaking was in progress all the United States flags on the stand on which Parsons stood were furled and tucked out of sight, while the red flag was flaunted on all sides. Some one yelled out, "Where is the stars and stripes?" as Parsons spoke of raising the Banner of Liberty and pointed to the red flag of the Central Labor union. No answer was vouchsafed, but in a couple of minutes the stars and stripes were unfurled from the platform.

When the speaking had been concluded at each platform three cheers were given for the eight hour movement and the crowds quickly melted away.

HERR MOST

An Incendiary Speech that should Land him in Prison

NEW YORK, April 24.—Herr Most's address [illegible] in prison before the [illegible]. He said: "I can furnish you with 1000 fine breech-loaders with bayonets at $10 apiece. You waste your money buying gold watches and jewelry. Better buy muskets, revolvers and cartridges. When you have enough shooting irons, then rise and take what belongs to us. Carry clubs also. We have not got artillery as yet, but we will have in time. The constitution gives us a right to have cannon also. As for bombs, you need not wait until you have founderies to make them. You can make bombs out of gaspipes. Take an iron pipe which you can find [illegible] with dynamite and gunpowder. Fasten [illegible] and when you see a gathering of the [illegible] throw them under their feet and kill them. Let your women use bombs also and learn how to use petroleum. Petroleum is cheap and burns well. Petroleum bombs can be thrown twenty feet. Then when we are all armed we can rise at a given moment and take possession of all the armories and arsenals in the city. In one year 10,000 men could be armed. Then we would seize the capitalists by the throat. We will take all the meat, wine, vegetables and champagne for ourselves. We will not help out any foolish trades union strikers; we want all. We will make war upon all capitalists and the state and church, for they are all our enemies."

LABOR TROUBLE NOTES

THE [illegible] OF LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 25.—Since last evening every train has brought locomotive engineers from all the New England states, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania to this city. Special trains were run over the various roads in this state to-day to accommodate those who could not get here last night, and at 10 A. M., when the session of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was called to order in Allyn hall by Chief Arthur, 800 engineers were present. What was done at the meeting could not be learned. Chief Arthur when approached was non-communicative regarding the attitude of the brotherhood toward the strike in the Southwest. It is learned on good authority that the assemblage passed a vote sustaining Chief Arthur's course.

In the afternoon the visitors were shown about the city and among other places visited the capitol.

In the evening a public meeting was held at Allyn hall. The platform was occupied by Chief Brennan, Hartford division, Chief Arthur, temperance advocate Metcalf of Providence, grand chaplain Everett of Philadelphia, third grand assistant Geo. Van Tassel of New York, railroad commissioner Everett, Stevens of Massachusetts, and Patrick Tennell, "Shandy Maguire," the poet of the [illegible]. Chief Brennan made an address and then called upon the chaplain to open the meeting with prayer. Chief Arthur was then introduced. He made a long and interesting address, [illegible] the history of the order from its [illegible] in Detroit, M[illegible], twenty three years ago, [illegible] the present time. He was followed by other speakers. At the close of the meeting most of the engineers left the city on a special train.

JAY GOULD INTERVIEWED.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Jay Gould was called upon at his home by a Tribune reporter this afternoon. In reply to inquiries concerning the present condition of affairs in the southwest Mr. Gould said: "It is so quiet that we hardly know that there has been a strike." Gould was asked what he thought of the threats made against the Wabash railroad system in the event of his obtaining control of it at the sale to-morrow. He replied: "The Wabash employs hardly any Knights of Labor. [illegible] was made after the [illegible] strikes in regard to the labor employed."

The Wabash will be sold to-morrow under foreclosure and it will be bought in by the bondholders. A majority of them are in Scotland and England and the rest are widely scattered over [illegible] this country.

[illegible]

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—Master plasterers of this city have agreed to put the eight hour system into effect on May 1, and to pay their men [illegible] day. The old rate was $4.50 for ten hours. The new rate is really an advance of 15 cents per day. Journeymen [illegible] expected to accept the plan, and no trouble is apprehended.

The movement among stove molders for an advance of 15 per cent in wages will [illegible] result in arbitration between the molders' union and the stove companies, and the establishment of a new scale of prices, both sides being equally willing, and in fact anxious to make such an arrangement and definitely settle the matter of wages [illegible] all concerned.

POSTPONEMENT ADVISED.

BOSTON, April 25.—Master masons of the master builders association have issued a lengthy report to the bricklayers' assembly K. of L., which report recommends that the whole question of reduction of hours of labor be abandoned till a more propitious time, and that the rate of wages remain as it is at present, but that on Saturday eight hours be accepted as a day's labor.

IN FAVOR OF EIGHT HOURS.

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—An unusually large number of labor meetings, including the Central Labor union and the amalgamated building trades, which embrace a good many separate unions, were held here this afternoon and to-night. The eight hour system was the principal subject discussed, and it was pretty generally decided to put the plan into operation one week from to-morrow, or on May 3.

THE NEW YORK STRIKE.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Third Avenue railroad company ran fifty-seven cars on the main line to-day, and twelve on the One Hundred and Twenty fifth street line. Contrary to expectations there was no disturbance, the strikers keeping their men off the avenue, and persuading, so far as possible, the public from patronizing the cars. This was the tenth day of the strike, and the attitude of the company and the strikers appears not to have changed. Three hundred and sixty nine cars are usually run Sundays, of which fifty seven were run to-day. All the drivers and conductors of New York, Jersey City and Brooklyn are contributing a day's pay per week to support the strikers.

CROP REVIEW

Favorable Weather for Seeding—No Improvement in the Winter Wheat Outlook

CHICAGO, April 25.—The Farmers' Review will publish the following crop review, based on its reports from its correspondents up to last night:

The weather has been exceptionally favorable during the past [illegible] for spring wheat seeding, and it is being [illegible] the north in Wisconsin, [illegible] Nebraska, Minnesota and Dakota. [illegible] Iowa and Minnesota has already been seeded [illegible] Nebraska [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Minnesota and [illegible] considerable [illegible] in Dakota.

The reports from the winter wheat states show little variation from those of the previous two weeks. The [illegible] is not indicated [illegible] improved [illegible]

[illegible]. In Dickinson [illegible] the fields have been plowed [illegible]. The reports from Michigan also show [illegible] little or any improvement. The prospects are for from [illegible] per cent of an average crop in the different counties. Reports of damage from the Hessian fly come from three Michigan counties and from [illegible] county in Indiana, but [illegible] it is reported the [illegible] is not serious. The generality of the reports from Indiana and Ohio are very favorable, while the reports from Missouri and Tennessee continue very flattering. The weather of the past two weeks has been extremely favorable. With the exception of [illegible] county in Kentucky, Johnson, where there is the promise of not to exceed half a crop, the returns continue very favorable.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WHEELMEN.

BOSTON, April [illegible].—The chairmen of the various committees of the League of American Wheelmen held a [illegible] meeting here during the past twenty four hours arranging a programme for the three days annual meeting in this city on May 29 to 31. It has been decided to devote the first day to a grand reunion, the second to a business meeting and the third day to races. An elaborate programme has been arranged, which includes runs [illegible] to various resorts in the city and suburbs. On the morning of the first day there will be a grand parade with probably 1000 wheelmen in line. This will be followed by a tricycle race and a hill climbing test at Corey hill. The third day will include mile bicycle races for the national championship, mile tricycle races for the national championship, mile bicycle race for the Massachusetts championship, mile and three mile open class races, mile handicap and two mile open races. A grand banquet will close the meeting. Several thousand dollars have already been raised to meet expenses. It is expected that at least 5000 wheelmen will attend.

NEW ORLEANS, April [illegible].—A. M. Sall [illegible] M. [illegible] and Harvy [illegible] left here this morning on their bicycles for Boston. The time to be occupied by the trip is limited to thirty days, and the three bicyclists expect to arrive at Boston in time to attend the annual meeting of the League of American Wheelmen.

THE ROCK ISLAND LOCKING [illegible] WEST.

NEW YORK, April 25.—President Cable, of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, was besieged at the Windsor yesterday by Wall street men anxious to learn the significance of his company's $10,000,000 issue of new collateral trust bonds. He contented himself with replying that it meant that the Rock Island was in the [illegible] of extension and development beyond anything attempted by outsiders. Plans were not yet sufficiently shaped, however, he said, toward making them public. About [illegible] miles of railroad would be built. The extensions were to be west of the Missouri river, although the president would not acknowledge that the Rock Island road has its eye on business of the Pacific coast.

DENVER, April [illegible].—The Tribune [illegible] special says: Mr. Nichols, James Stoops, [illegible] [illegible] miners [illegible] with [illegible] left here Tuesday morning to open the trail to Red Mountain, which the snowstorm of the past week had blockaded. When about four miles from the city the entire party was struck by a snowslide which carried them to the bottom of the mountain and buried them under an avalanche. Nichols, Stoops, [illegible] and [illegible] succeeded in getting out alive. [illegible] were instantly killed.

TORNADO IN TEXAS.

GALVESTON, April [illegible].—A [illegible] special says a tornado swept [illegible] killed [illegible] at [illegible] It struck the house [illegible] demolishing the building, [illegible] the entire family, the baby fatally. The [illegible] residence was also destroyed. The family were saved, having just taken refuge in their storm house. The storm came from the northwest and did considerable damage in the town of [illegible]. Hail stones as large as hens' eggs fell, destroying [illegible] and fruit trees and breaking many window glass.

[illegible] TO LEAVE THE RESERVATION.

ST. PAUL, April [illegible].—A Pioneer Press special from Fort [illegible] says that great excitement exists at that place in consequence of an order issued by the Indian agent at the instance of the [illegible] ordering [illegible] and residences off Fort [illegible] within thirty days. This will involve a loss of $500,000, and settlers [illegible] to move except [illegible]

EASTER SERVICES.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Special Easter services were held to-day in all the churches and were attended by large congregations. Services in the [illegible] churches were grand and imposing. [illegible] Archbishop Corrigan assisted in the services at St. Patrick's cathedral, and the [illegible] Harvey Goodwin [illegible] participated in services at Old Trinity church.

[illegible] CASE [illegible]

NEW YORK, April 25.—The senate committee which has in its care the nomination of Capt. Beecher, son of Rev. Mr. Beecher, to be collector of Port Townsend, is said to be dissatisfied with the explanation made by Capt. Beecher and his father, and so have asked the president to withdraw Beecher's nomination.

CLEARING HOUSE RETURNS.

BOSTON, April [illegible].—A table compiled from special dispatches to the Post from the managers of the leading clearing houses in the United States shows gross bank exchanges at each point for the week ending April 24th, in comparison with the corresponding week in 1885. Total $[illegible]; increase [illegible] per cent.

DEATH OF FATHER RYAN.

[illegible].—The remains of Father Ryan, the poet priest, [illegible] Thursday, will be interred at Mobile with military [illegible]. The Catholic societies of this city passed resolutions of respect and appointed eight pall bearers.

AND WHAT NEXT.

NEW YORK, April 24.—It is rumored in sporting circles here that Jack Dempsy is engaged to be married to a wealthy and highly connected lady of Portland, Oregon.

SALEM NOTES

SALEM, April [illegible].

Mrs. A. F. White is visiting friends in Portland.

The democratic county convention will meet in this city on Tuesday next.

THE IRISH MEASURES.

Gladstone has the Liberal Party Well in Hand.

THE STRUGGLE OF THE CENTURY

Lord Spencer's Stand for Home Rule—Gladstone Writes a Letter to the Chronicle—Home Rule Notes

NEW YORK, April [illegible].—The Herald's [illegible] cable says: [illegible] the Irish question. He answered [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the delight in going the other way. From [illegible] it is not insignificant that whenever a rated [illegible] is openly gone against Gladstone he has been promptly and sharply called to account by his local [illegible] Rylands. Everybody always said [illegible] the [illegible] of radicals [illegible] and the [illegible]

[illegible] Chamberlain [illegible] and even this was [illegible] Gladstone [illegible] the Irish bills in their main principles. No doubt changes will be demanded, but the expectations are that Gladstone will yield no point [illegible] on this bill [illegible] committee.

TWO [illegible]

Unless the [illegible] the second reading is that [illegible] it is not [illegible] the Irish bill is not [illegible] the Irish members from Westminster and the land bill [illegible] an imperial [illegible] Many other details are open to controversy [illegible]

The question then is will Gladstone yield on either or both. Some insist he [illegible] and will concede nothing, but [illegible] will [illegible] that this is his last chance. He will surrender in case of necessity, but will contrive to save appearances. He has never been [illegible] a great measure because he employs all the means at hand without reserve. Depend on it he will not be beaten without a terribly strong fight.

There is no use of looking too far ahead, but I may say that talk in private political circles is that Gladstone anticipates passing or wrecking the bills through the commons. Then they will be rejected by the lords. Then he will appeal to the country on the issue of lords or commons, making Ireland a secondary question. In case of success he would introduce the bills in the autumn session. [illegible] we are committed to the hottest [illegible] strife of this century. Many [illegible] the changes in parliament and government before [illegible] is over.

LORD SPENCER'S STAND FOR HOME RULE.

LONDON, April [illegible].—The home rule [illegible] holds the field. The great meeting at Newcastle [illegible] Birmingham on Wednesday proves even more important than had been expected. Lord Spencer's speech at Newcastle was by far the most helpful to the government. [illegible] since Gladstone's. Lord Spencer's name [illegible] has been daily invoked on behalf of [illegible] but few supposed that the conversion of the late viceroy in Ireland was so complete. He blesses whom he once cursed. He [illegible] against whom he wielded all the terrors of the law. Not content with supporting home rule, he pays tribute to home rulers who loaded him with calumnies. He accepts the Irish representatives' [illegible] of complicity in excesses; believes that the new Irish parliament would fulfill its mission, and repels all suggestions that the Irish nation wishes for the complete separation which Parnell [illegible] while asserting the possibility of enforcing law and preserving order in Ireland, believes England democracy will not persevere in coercion, and therefore [illegible] has stood and is crisis that nothing is left but the [illegible] trust in the Irish people and Irish leaders. He could not, however, trust them to deal fairly with Irish landlords, and thinks it would be mean and treacherous if the imperial parliament neglected to defend the landlords' interests. The expression of these sentiments by a man occupying a position so exceptional as Lord Spencer produces an impression which is probably stronger [illegible] country in general than with the press. [illegible] of the liberal party is still in the [illegible]. Witness the action of the general committee of the [illegible] central liberal association. They declined to adopt a motion for or against ministerial measures, and finally voted to delay in [illegible] their minds till they had heard leading liberals more fully.

A LETTER FROM GLADSTONE.

LONDON, April [illegible].—Gladstone has written the following letter to the Chronicle: "It is not my custom to comment on statements made by hostile newspapers, but having sincere respect for the Chronicle I would call attention to an allegation made by it in a leader that I have heretofore taught that home rule in Ireland would be a source of imperial danger. I will not challenge proof of the assertion, which was doubtless made in good faith, but it is entirely an error. I have always asked for an explanation of the meaning of home rule in order to make clear the question whether or not it would be a source of danger. We have now learned the demand of Ireland from the vast majority of her chosen representatives. Such home rule is in the language of my address of September last a source not of danger, but of strength. Danger if any lies in refusing it."

It is stated that some officers now stationed in Ireland have applied to the war office for transfer [illegible] lest they be called upon to [illegible] against the people of Ulster.

CHAMBERLAIN'S INTENTIONS.

LONDON, April [illegible].—The Birmingham [illegible] says it is [illegible] that Chamberlain has given notice [illegible] will introduce in the house of commons an [illegible]

NOTES FROM DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, April [illegible].—More than 5000 members of the civil service in Ireland have appointed a committee to watch the progress of the home rule bill and endeavor to secure an improvement of the [illegible] in the bill which relates to them. [illegible] against the home rule measure will be introduced at the Easter meeting of the [illegible] church.

ENGLAND

A [illegible] CRITICISM [illegible] THE MINISTRY.

LONDON, April [illegible].—Chaplain Williams [illegible] [illegible] is bringing suit against Rev. H. M. [illegible], father of Justice Field, for libel, claiming [illegible] damages. Field shortly after the close of the war in the Soudan published a book on the Greek island which contained a footnote [illegible] Williams's charges that Col. Wilson's delays and incompetency caused the fall of Khartoum as false and wicked. Williams maintains that he long ago proved the truth of his statements concerning [illegible] Wilson, and asks in his characteristically [illegible] style: "What the devil has the Soudan to do with the Greek island anyhow?"

THE CRISIS IN THE UNITED STATES.

LONDON, April [illegible].—The Standard, commenting on the strikes in the United States, says that the [illegible] strain the resources of American statesmanship, as they have only once been tried since the war of independence to keep the conflict with the forces of legality and constitutional order. Republican institutions are [illegible] it looks as if the [illegible] would be [illegible] severest test.

THE GREAT EASTERN.

LONDON, April [illegible].—The chartering of [illegible] for the purpose of [illegible] [illegible] is [illegible] of the project to utilize the Great Eastern for similar purposes in British interests. As at present arranged the Great Eastern will [illegible] at Liverpool on the [illegible] [illegible] at that city, after which she [illegible] will be taken to Bermuda to be used as [illegible].

FRANCE

[illegible] ANTI-SEMITIC [illegible]

NEW YORK, April 25.—Herald's Paris special: The over-zealous Catholic, M. Drumont, has made a great sensation by trying to raise a French anti-Semitic crusade. He pitches into the Israelites from Abraham down to the modern theatre [illegible] brokers on the boulevards. Drumont's [illegible] brand has however overshot the mark and raised the ire of Gentiles as well as Jews. Everybody is [illegible] with him from the archbishop of Paris, whose name he invoked in vain, to the most shrieking atheist. It is needless to say that Drumont has a score of duels on his hands. He was wounded in his first duel by Charles Laurent, editor of the Journal de Paris, and his next encounter was with Arthur Meyer, the witty and discerning director of the Gaulois, which came off at St. Cloud. Drumont received a deep wound in the thigh.

THE EASTERN TROUBLE

NOTES FROM ATHENS.

ATHENS, April 25.—At a meeting of the municipal council to-day a resolution was adopted wishing Godspeed to the troops, and expressing a hope that they would do honor to their flag in the struggle for Greek unity and freedom. A resolution was also adopted inviting citizens to bid the departing soldiers a hearty farewell.

The government has received a friendly note from France, in which it is intimated that the ultimatum of the French government may be expected shortly. M. de Freycinet has written to Prime Minister Delyannis, assuring him of the friendship of France and begging him to use his efforts to preserve peace.

ATHENS, April 25.—Orders to forward troops to the frontier have been countermanded. The [illegible] has been [illegible].

ALBANY NOTES

ALBANY, April [illegible].

[illegible] of the Daily Herald has returned from his visit east.

Mrs. A. B. McIlwain and daughter [illegible] are visiting at [illegible].

Dr. O. [illegible] Aubrey has been engaged as leader of the Tangent brass band.

S. [illegible] purchased the McMecken property near the depot yesterday.

Mrs. [illegible] of Kansas is visiting in the city at the residence of her sister, Mrs. [illegible] Burkhart.

[illegible] Strahan returned yesterday from Lagrange City, where he has been attending court for the past week.

Ed. Zeyss of this city is drawing the plans for a two story brick building to be built at Lebanon by the Masons.

[illegible] Cherry, Willard [illegible] and John Henshaw [illegible] will hereafter conduct the [illegible] Cherry foundry.

Mercer Thompson, a pioneer of 1852, died at his home near Shedd last Tuesday of [illegible] of the heart.

A. G. Walling spent last Sunday in this city looking after his interests. He is a possible nominee for state printer.

A few days since Mr. Daniel Best, who is now in California, telegraphed to his factory here to commence work at once upon sixteen more separators.

Miss Lucy Welch, sister of Mrs. Geo. Chamberlain, will leave to-day for her home in Mississippi. Miss Welch has been visiting in Albany for a year past.

Dr. O'Toole has rented his new hotel to Carl Gorman of Portland for a term of five years. Work on the new building is being rapidly crowded along.

Friday's freight train made a miscalculation on a flying switch at Halsey and the result was four cars thrown from the track, two of them being badly demolished.

The contest over several of the county offices will be lively this election. Although the county is solidly democratic, the republicans hope to elect several of their ticket.

Mr. Thompson was in the city yesterday with his beautiful little horse Arthur, a half brother of the California horse Arab, said to have recently trotted a one half mile in sixty seconds.

Deputy Sheriff James Riley of Harrisburg was in the city yesterday, having brought down a man by the name of [illegible], sentenced to the county jail for five days for carrying a concealed weapon.

Since Jan. 1, 1886, L. Senders has paid out over $40,000 to the farmers of the Willamette valley for horses, and he is only one of half a dozen men who are purchasing these animals for the San Francisco market.

Tuesday morning next the delegates to the republican [illegible]. They will present the names of J. C. Powell for district attorney and D. R. N. Blackburn for the supreme bench. Both if elected would give satisfaction.

Dr. J. F. Hendrex of Harrisburg was in the city last Thursday making arrangements for the printing of a new book entitled "Hard Times, its Cause and Cure." The doctor is an able writer and no doubt the book will be filled with interesting and valuable reading matter.

REAL ESTATE MARKET

Twenty four deeds were filed for record with the county clerk during the past week of an aggregate value of $31,565. The mortgages filed for record during the same period foot up $[illegible], and those released $10,050.

The transactions for the week under review have been very light and unsatisfactory, showing a decline in volume of $[illegible] as compared with that of the preceding week. This marked decline in business is attributable wholly or in part to the excitement consequent upon the opening of the political campaign. Owners of property cling to high values and buyers are not disposed to load themselves down with property at boom prices.

Following are the transactions for the week:

RATES TO I. O. O. F. GRAND LODGE.

OREGON CITY, April [illegible].

I have made the following arrangements for representatives and wives who may attend the session of the grand lodge I. O. O. F., which meets at The Dalles October 18, 1886. The O. & C. R. R. requires all to pay full fare to Portland and to present certificates from the grand secretary at their office, corner F and Front street, Portland, where they will get return tickets at one fifth regular fare. Narrow Gauge the same rates [illegible] reduction on Oregon Navigation company's line.

J. M. BACON, Grand Secretary.

The Free Traders

Philadelphia Times (Ind. Dem.)

The free traders are learning slowly. A little while ago they were all demanding unlimited free trade. Now they want free trade in everything except what their own states happen to produce. In another year or two they may have a little more wisdom and advocate the judicious protection of infantile industries. Time knocks wisdom into a great many heads.

Another Murder in Golden Gate Park—Forecast of the Coming Week in Congress—Anti-Chinese Legislation

ASTORIA, April [illegible].—Late last evening reports of the loss of the coasting schooner Kate and Anna, and the schooner Trustee were duly confirmed. Mr. Carruthers of Chesterville arrived and says the Kate and Anna was crossing Shoalwater bar [illegible] when her machinery broke down [illegible] North spit and grounded the [illegible]. As there was comparatively no sea [illegible] apparent danger of her not floating off at flood tide, Capt. [illegible] did not take to his boats, and when Capt. Brown with his life saving crew came promptly alongside to the rescue, he refused to leave the steamer. Capt. Brown, apprehensive of danger, stayed by, and when flood tide made he and the crew helped float her off, but when afloat she leaked so badly that she filled and sank just as they reached the beach, and it is feared she will be a total loss. No lives were lost. Simpson Brothers' schooner Trustee, lumber laden for San Francisco, left Grays harbor Thursday. The tug Hunter towed [illegible] After the [illegible] cast off [illegible] and failed, and the strong [illegible] current set the schooner ashore on the sands at Peterson's [illegible]. The crew abandoned her and were saved. The vessel and cargo are said to be a total loss.

ASTORIA NOTES.

ASTORIA, April [illegible].—Twenty three Astoria canneries to-day publicly announced that an efficient force will patrol the river to protect the rights of property and person of fishermen willing to fish, and every effort will be made to give them full protection; also $100 reward is offered for the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of personal violence or forcible intimidation or destruction of fishing gear.

Senator Dolph writes the chamber of commerce that the secretary of the treasury will issue an order making the Columbia river headquarters for the United States revenue cutter Corwin.

The prohibition party has decided to nominate a full ticket for county offices for Clatsop county. A convention will be held May 8th.

UNION COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

LA GRANDE, April [illegible].—At the republican county convention for Union county, held yesterday, the following ticket was nominated: Judge D. W. [illegible]; commissioners, J. A. Rumble and J. B. Kellogg; representatives, F. D. McCully and [illegible]; treasurer, J. H. White; assessor, O. D. Tomlinson; surveyor, M. Austin; school superintendent, C. M. Irwin; coroner, J. W. Snyder; sheriff, A. N. Hamilton; clerk, [illegible] J. Rouse; delegates, J. W. Strange, D. W. C. Nelson, N. B. [illegible], A. Clearer, J. F. Baker, M. Sterling, J. W. Norville, F. D. McCully and W. T. Wright. The delegation favors W. J. Snodgrass for state treasurer.

SHOT AND SERIOUSLY WOUNDED.

THE DALLES, April 25.—Last night about 10 o'clock Peter Morgan was shot and seriously, if not fatally, wounded by a waiter named Johnnie Smith in front of the skating pavilion. Morgan was in the employ of Crate Bros., butchers, and had trouble with Smith about a lunch. They met last night on Second street and had a fight, when Smith pulled a pistol and shot Morgan in the neck, the ball ranging around to the right shoulder blade. Smith is still at large, and Morgan is in a very precarious condition.

A BRILLIANT METEOR.

GRANTS PASS, April 25.—A large meteor appeared to fall about five miles southwest of this place at [illegible] last night, leaving in its path a trail of fire which lasted fully three seconds, with dazzling effect.

CALIFORNIA

A SOCIALISTIC LEADER THRASHED.

SAN RAFAEL, April 24.—Valentine and Charles McGlatchy of the Bee gave Nobie Fisher a thrashing at the postoffice corner immediately after reading in the Bee [illegible] slighting reference to their mother. Fisher is a mechanic and social[illegible] [illegible] employing Chinese. The attack on the Bee and Mrs. McGlatchy was made because the Bee is suspected of preparing the resolutions recently passed by the Anti-Chinese association denouncing the [illegible]. Some of Fisher's teeth were knocked out.

ANOTHER MURDER IN GOLDEN GATE PARK.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Two weeks ago the body of a murdered man was found in Golden Gate park. The man proved to be William High, lately arrived here from Pennsylvania. To-day the body of a man supposed to be Dr. J. W. Hersch was found within a short distance from where High's body was found. Indications are that Hersch was also murdered. His hat bore the mark of a Kansas City firm, and his coat was made by F. M. Williams, Denver. The murdered man is about [illegible] years old.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

THE COMING WEEK IN CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—After routine morning business in the senate to-morrow Senator Van Wyck will ask that the bill to tax railroad lands be again taken up. Senator Blair has given notice that he will at the same hour ask the senate to listen to a speech on the liquor question. It may require a vote of the senate to decide between the two. At 2 o'clock unfinished business and the interstate commerce bill will be laid before the senate and will thereafter occupy the session after the morning hour each day until disposed of. Measures to be considered next in order according to the programme of the caucus committees are the general pension bill, the Des Moines river land bill vetoed by the president, the bankruptcy bill and resolutions for open executive sessions; but the senate, resting on its record of over 400 bills passed last week, will take matters leisurely and is not likely to get beyond the interstate commerce bill during the present week. The postoffice appropriation bill will be reported to-morrow and will temporarily displace the regular order some time during the week.

The river and harbor bill is unfinished business in the house, and its friends express a hope that it will be passed early in the week. Congress has been in session nearly five months, and more than half the number of the general appropriation bills remain unacted upon by the house, in which body they must originate. The consular and diplomatic and the military academy bills are the only general appropriation bills now on the calendar.

[illegible] PROSPECTS FOR CHINESE LEGISLATION.

WASHINGTON, April [illegible].—Edmund Stephenson, immigration commissioner of New York, has written a letter to [illegible] saying he approves the intentions of the bill which [illegible] [illegible] undesirable immigration to this country.

The [illegible] in regard to the Chinese [illegible] at this session is whether the Morrow bill will ever be [illegible] up [illegible] the house. The [illegible] on foreign affairs will have a day in the house [illegible] the Morrow bill will [illegible] be [illegible] for action at that time. [illegible] the approval of the committee, [illegible] not received generous hearty approbation.

Belmont told THE OREGONIAN correspondent to-day that he should try to call up his diplomatic and consular bill when his committee had its day in the house. If Belmont succeeds in this the Morrow bill will go to the calendar, where it will never be reached. The fate of Chinese legislation at this session depends on whether the Morrow bill be called up when the committee on foreign affairs has its day. It looks now as though the committee would not call it up at the time.

HAGGIN WILL NOT GO TO AUSTRIA.

WASHINGTON, April [illegible].—Louis T. Haggin has decided to withdraw his application for the Austrian mission. [illegible] was here who [illegible] to this decision. It was thought that Hearst's appointment would strengthen Haggin, and together with his other backing, procure him the appointment, but at a moment when it was generally believed he would be designated minister to Austria his withdrawal from the contest is announced. It is said his father was opposed to his [illegible] this [illegible].

SECRETARY MANNING.

WASHINGTON, April [illegible].—Secretary Manning [illegible] so far recovered that he is now allowed to [illegible] visitors. [illegible] down stairs [illegible]. His physicians say that he will probably be at the [illegible] to-morrow.

[illegible] CALIFORNIA [illegible]

NEW YORK, April [illegible].—A Boston dispatch says it is reported that 3000 men are at work on the extension of the California & Oregon above Delta, and that the Southern Pacific company will extend the road to Strawberry valley as speedily as possible. The road is to connect with the Oregon & California for a through rail route from San Francisco to Portland, Oregon. The delay in the negotiations for the transfer of the Oregon & California to the Southern Pacific company is caused by the latter's desire to know the legal status of such acquisition with the government.

THE EUROPEAN BOURSES.

FRANKFORT, April 25.—There was a general improvement on bourse during the past week, owing chiefly to reports of firmer prices on other bourses. Russians especially showed a firmer tendency. Egyptian unified rose 1 per cent. Private discount advanced to 1⅞ per cent.

VIENNA, April 25.—The bourse during the past week was depressed, owing to renewal of the cholera scare, the bad financial position of Hungary, and reports of clearly decreasing traffic on Austro-Hungarian railways.

PORTLAND, MONDAY, APRIL 26, 1886.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

The function of the house of lords, in the scheme of English government is peculiar. It was a powerful political influence up to the passage of the reform bill in 1832, when Lord Grey determined to create peers enough to pass the bill in the house of lords, and so advised King William the Fourth, but the king refused. Thereupon the ministry resigned and the Duke of Wellington undertook to form a new government and stem the tide. But he also proved powerless. The former ministry returned and William the Fourth made his submission in these words: "The king grants permission to Earl Grey and to his chancellor, Lord Brougham, to create such a number of peers as will be sufficient to ensure the passage of the reform bill." Upon this, rather than be overwhelmed by the new creations, a majority of the opposition absented themselves from the house of lords and the bill was passed. Since that day the lower house of commons has governed England, and the house of lords has only registered its decrees. The only instance we remember when anything approaching resistance to the will of the commons has been attempted, was when Gladstone, as chancellor of the exchequer under Lord Palmerston, in 1860, carried through the house of commons the repeal of the duty on paper, the last remnant of the ancient system of English finance which pressed severely on journalism, by a majority of only nine votes. The house of lords, under the lead of Lords Lyndhurst and Derby, rejected the bill of Gladstone by a majority of eighty-nine. Mr Bright, in the commons, pointed out that the constitution never gave the house of lords any power of reimposing a tax which the commons had repealed. Great public meetings were held in London and the north and much anger was expressed at the conduct of the house of lords. The principal function of the house of lords is to interpose at some moment of emergency and give the house of commons time to reconsider its action. The delaying power, which our president exercises by his veto, is almost exactly the same as that which English political usage, even more than the British constitution, has put at the discretion of the house of lords. The president, by his veto, sends back a measure for reconsideration. This is all that the house of lords can now do, and only in exceptional cases do the peers dare to do so much. When once the action of the house of lords has been seriously called in question, it may be taken for granted that it will not be repeated. One indignant writer of that day insisted that if the lords did not give way, "the English people would turn them out of Westminster palace and strew the Thames with the wrecks of their painted chamber." Gladstone denounced the action of the lords as "a gigantic innovation." It is needless to say that the lords did not persist in their purpose, and Gladstone's resolution abolishing the excise on paper became a law.

Of those who attend the house of lords one-fifth have passed the age of three-score and ten; thirty-seven are upward of 75, and twenty-three are octogenarians. The average age of the peers is 58. With the exception of Lord Derby and Lord Salisbury, who stand for the ancient families of Stanley and Cecil, that can trace their lineage back to Lord Derby, who defeated Richard the Third at the battle of Bosworth, and to Lord Burleigh, the famous minister of Queen Elizabeth, the few able men in the house of lords have been promoted from the commons. They are chiefly what are called law-lords, like Sir Roundell Palmer, made Lord Selborne, and the late Lord Cairns, and this has been true for the last hundred years of England's history. When we think of English peers who have been great statesmen they are all distinguished commoners promoted for great legal abilities or exceptional political services. Chatham, Holland, Camden, Thurlow, Loughborough, Lyndhurst, Eldon, Stowell, Mansfield, Brougham, Ashburton, Macaulay, Beaconsfield, were all great commoners. Out of twenty-eight dukes [illegible] is coming when this wooden-headed hereditary legislature will be extinguished and perhaps replaced by an elective body like our American senate. The radical organs of the English liberals are loudly calling for the obliteration of the house of lords. Labouchere, in London Truth, not long since, used the following uncompromising language concerning the lords:

> Do you, my respected conservative friends, suppose that we shall tolerate hereditary legislators imposing a veto on our will? Do you imagine that we shall allow territorial magnates to own counties? Do you think that we shall assent to millions per annum being handed over by the state to one religious sect? Is it probable that we shall submit to the executive being in the hands of peers and plutocrats who do all they can to render all labor nugatory? Can you be so blind as not to see that we shall insist upon equality of sacrifice as to the basis of taxation, the obligation to raise the public revenue from those best able to bear it? Monstrous doctrine, you say. You think so, but we do not, and the practical question is not which of us is right, but which will prevail. You gave us the victory when you aided us in establishing universal suffrage and electoral districts. The battle is already won. If you do not perceive this I am sorry for your intelligence. You may perhaps delay your walk between the Caudine Forks, but you cannot escape it. So long as few had votes and the powerful could know how the weak voted, the interest of the few prevailed. The wheel has gone round. You are now at the bottom; we are at the top. Why then not accept the inevitable? [illegible] events or [illegible] the inevitable. You have had a long and [illegible] and [illegible] very pleasant [illegible].

On the passage of the last famous franchise bill Sir William Harcourt wrote the London Times [illegible] and other counties, liberals [illegible] where the liberals [illegible] influence of the [illegible] and the parson had vanished. [illegible] the enlargement from [illegible] social and political revolution [illegible] as a rule, have always been [illegible] their political sympathies and action [illegible] the agricultural laborer damned his parson [illegible] the laborer hated the parson as generally the provincial magistrate who punished petty offences against property [illegible] the game laws with merciless severity. [illegible] the parson, in whose church the poor man was placed in humble corners, and at the last election the house of lords heard [illegible] but it doom pronounced by liberal majorities [illegible] that for half a century had been [illegible]. The franchise bill swept the party of the squire and the parson completely away, and marked the house of lords for an early grave. Andrew Carnegie, the well known rich manufacturer of Pittsburg, Pa., who has lived a good deal in England during the last twenty years, believes that democracy will at no distant day have actual control of the British islands. He believes that England will give home rule to Ireland with rights similar to those enjoyed by the citizens of the American Union. "The child now lives," said Mr. Carnegie, "who will see every English-speaking community living under the extremest views of the rights of man, as formulated in our declaration of independence, without a vestige of privileges from birth, without king or aristocracy, without united church and state, without great standing armies, unhampered by primogeniture and entail, with equal electoral privileges and equal districts."

It is safe to say that not one-fourth part of the voters of Multnomah county will vote this year what politicians call a "straight ticket." In a few days the democratic ticket will be presented and then, with all the tickets before him the the voter will begin to deliberate, with a view to making his own nominations. Thousands of voters will hold a convention, each for himself, and the bosses will not be present to "set it up" on them.

The ways and means committee of the house last week made another strong report against the Hawaiian treaty. This treaty is one of the jobs that J. H. Mitchell ran through the senate during his former term in that body.

The registry list at Tacoma shows a voting population of 1710, of whom 520 are women. The municipal election will take place in May.

"DECADENCE OF LEGISLATION."

New York and Ohio just now furnish notable illustration of what has been called the "decadence of legislation in the United States." These cases reach into national affairs and so have brought to national attention a subject heretofore only considered locally. It is found upon comparison that legislatures in their personal composition are pretty much alike in all the states, and that during the past twenty five years there has been a continuous retrograde movement. It is said of the last Ohio legislature (that which met two years ago) that "it did absolutely nothing for the welfare of the public, that it was not true to any trust, and its choice of a United States senator was undoubtedly determined by the use of bribes, of which plentiful evidence has been found by an investigating committee. The first question which came before its successor was whether men chosen by virtue of the most outrageous election frauds should or should not be admitted to seats. On that there was a deadlock and the bitterest possible struggle. From a body, possessed of even a minority committed to the support of crime, [illegible] could be expected."

New York has at this time on its hands a legislature equally bad. It is described by the phrase now becoming of general application, "one of the worst the state ever had." An imported critic, writing of his body, declares that "not daring to run counter to the present outburst of opinion against the street railway robbers, it has yet done nothing worth mentioning to assist reform. It has fastened upon New York city an odious job in strengthening a gas monopoly which it was asked to break down, but it has been faithless, in a like manner, to the people's interest in every direction."

In Oregon we are able to parallel these scandals without going back further than last year. We have only just gotten through with one of those "events in the history of the state" legislatures. In the matters of stupidity and corruption, in their various and interesting forms, we will match our last legislature against all comers. Every important duty was either stupidly or corruptly botched, and a special session, called to correct the work of the regular session, only made matters the worse.

Legislatures are improperly made up, because there is general disinclination on the part of competent and worthy men to serve in them. The men of right qualification who are willing to do this public work are few in number, comparatively. The absence of live issues and the consequent decline of partisanship are doubtless the causes. During the stirring times of twenty years ago better men were at the front, and legislatures were not left to be made up by corrupt bosses for their own purposes.

The state board of immigration has issued a bulletin, showing climatic conditions and temperature at Portland during the months of November and December, 1885, and January and February, 1886. During November the maximum temperature was 65, the minimum was 31 and the mean was 47; during December the maximum was 57, the minimum was 27 and the mean was 45; during January the maximum was 60, the minimum was 15 and the mean was 36; during February the maximum was 65, the minimum was 31 and the mean was 47. The mean temperature at Portland during November and December differed little from that at Atlanta, Ga.; during January it was exactly the same as at Galveston, Texas; during February it was 12 degrees higher at Portland than at Louisville, and 4 degrees higher than at Galveston. The circular issued by the board says the climate of Oregon is "healthful and invigorating." It is healthful, undoubtedly, and invigorating, too,—invigorating, that is to say, for sleep and general repose, if we may judge of its effects from the restful spirit that has stolen so gently over many persons in the country.

There is unprecedented and astonishing unanimity in the republican party of Multnomah county. It appeared in the convention on Saturday, where the programme mostly went through without necessity of conference or explanation. There were about fifty four souls in that convention with but a single thought, unanimity is phenomenal and impressive. The great republican party of the nation overthrew slavery, suppressed the rebellion and restored the Union. Why, therefore, shouldn't the little local bosses in Multnomah be allowed a quarter of a century later, to carry through their own schemes of selfishness and profit in the name of the great republican party, and require every republican to vote the ticket, the whole ticket and nothing but the ticket, on the plea that the salvation of the country depends on it.

The "slated" republican state ticket is this: For governor, T. R. Cornelius; congress, H. Hermann; treasurer, A. Gilbert; secretary of state, Phil Metschen; superintendent of public instruction, T. F. McElroy; justice of the supreme court, W. Lair Hill. This last name is put on the slate because Waldo isn't liked and the dynasty don't care whether Hill is elected or not, and feel that if he should be beaten they could easily afford the sacrifice. Since this is undoubtedly the ticket of the republican regency it will be nominated, unless the managers fail to control the delegations from the interior counties.

The railroad war is ended and fares across the continent are advanced but not to old rates. Indeed, it is not probable the old rates will ever be restored. The new schedule is from 2 to 10 per cent below the old. Whether the rates between Portland and Eastern cities will be made the same as between San Francisco and Eastern cities, the [illegible] here has not yet been [illegible].

DEMORALIZED.

On his arrival in San Francisco, our Mr. KING LEE found the market in a terribly demoralized condition, on account of the fearful cuts made every day in freight rates. Everybody wanted to get rid of goods, as the town is perfectly flooded with them. As KING LEE knows a good thing when it is offered to him, he pitched right in, and this is the result:

BRIEF MENTION

"The Bohemian Girl" at the Casino to night.

The Columbia crossed out at 2 P M yesterday.

The Oregon had not been sighted from Astoria at 8 o'clock last night.

The steamer schooner Kate and Anna will never make the trip from Walla Walla to Portland again.

Mrs. L. H. Additon of Corvallis, one of the superintendents for the state W C T U, will address a meeting at the W C T U hall this afternoon.

Manager Clinton has many new attractions in [illegible] J P Clow, who will appear in the many [illegible] during the week. Mark Grayson continues his specialties.

George Harris, the Lexington druggist, was opening a bottle of muriatic acid last Friday when the acid spurted up into his face, burning him severely. He narrowly escaped losing his left eye.

Mrs. Dr Owens-Adair delivered one of her able lectures to a crowded house yesterday out at Newport, and Mrs. Riggs, district president, organized a W. C. T U of twenty six members.

The pigeon shooting at the White house yesterday was not a very brilliant success. Eleven participated. In the shoot off Messrs [illegible], Moore and Dudley tied and divided the purse.

F. K. Forsyth & Son of Champoeg, whose mill burned about midnight on Wednesday of last week, write to THE OREGONIAN that they expect to be in the lumber trade again in a very few days. The loss was fully $11,000, not $9,000 as first reported.

PERSONAL.

E. E. Kahn is very ill of pneumonia at his residence, corner Thirteenth and Yamhill.

Hon. D P Thompson is back from his trip to the Inland Empire and says he is not going to Liverpool, and that he never said he was going, nor had any intention of going to Liverpool.

"The Horse."—The raffle of that handsome [illegible] at Lewis Bros.'s establishment takes place Monday evening at 7:30 at the store, First street, between Main and Madison.

When you pack up and find it necessary to get a new valise or trunk, just put it down on your list that Silberstein, opposite the Esmond, has [illegible].

"We did a big week's business," remarked Mr [illegible] of the Portland Tailoring Parlors, "and there seems to be a disposition now among [illegible] to have suits made to order."

We know of no more industrious, whole-souled man in Portland than John Lachapelle, the veteran pleasure boat builder, who is now located at the foot of Madison street, where he has in his floating boat house some thirty sailing, rowing and canoe boats ready for the approaching season. He "boards" a number of boats of various descriptions. Every day in the week his time, together with that of his assistant, is taken up in making boats to order. He is a thorough mechanic, and persons wanting anything that floats, for pleasure purposes, will find Lachapelle's work well done. He uses timber that is grown here, and that alone should entitle him to patronage.

TO THE PUBLIC

It being now a fixed fact that the Columbia [illegible] will be built and Oatman's [illegible] is only ten minutes walk from [illegible] you can't make any better investment than [illegible]. They are level and all cleared [illegible] of them have been sold [illegible] only a few of them left [illegible] and you will be convinced that they are desirable and cheap.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

BUILT WITHIN THE ESTIMATE.—[illegible] a gentleman called on W. S. Ladd [illegible] subscription for a church to be built at [illegible]. Mr Ladd has considerable church stock, but has no objections to investing in a little more. He inquired what kind of a church was to be built, how much it was to cost, etc. He was shown the plans for rather a handsome structure, which it was estimated could be built for somewhere about $[illegible]. Mr Ladd after glancing at the plans informed the agent that the cost of the proposed building would exceed the estimates, and counseled economy; spoke of the disagreeable features of being in debt, of which he knows considerable from one standpoint; and finally, with the distinct understanding that economy should be used and that there should be no debt left standing on the church, he put down his name for $[illegible]. Some weeks after the agent, who seemed to have a business idea of things, called to collect $500 with which to purchase lumber at a discount for cash. It was handed to him and nothing more was heard from him till a short time since, when he called to collect the other $600 and to invite the generous donor to attend the dedication of the church. He said they had put up a neat, comfortable building which would seat about 200 people, and had, by following the suggestions of economy given him, some money still left for furnishing it. When asked what the cost of the building had amounted to he produced bills and vouchers showing the full amount to be $1157 50. Mr Ladd commended the economy and business talent of the agent, and smilingly remarking that he seemed to have a talent in the way of building churches, handed him the remaining $560. He hasn't done laughing about the matter yet, and the next time he builds a church that agent will have the bossing of the job.

UNNECESSARY SLAUGHTER OF DEER.—It seems almost incredible that in spite of the laws for the preservation of game, there are parties in this state still engaged in the business of killing deer for their skins. But a gentleman who has just returned from the southern portion of the state says that the slaughter is extensively carried on in Douglas and Jackson counties at the present time. It might be supposed that some useless specimens of humanity would kill deer for their skins during the winter when there was no work to be found, but it is hard to believe that any one could be so utterly degraded and worthless as to spend his time at this season in murdering deer for the pitiful pittance to be obtained for their skins. The parties who are engaged in this business are known to the farmers, but the latter dare not inform on them for fear of their stock or even themselves being shot. Only a few days ago a farmer while out hunting for stock saw a hunter throw the carcasses of six deer into a stream and then throw the skins he had stripped from the carcasses over his shoulder and start for his camp. He would probably receive 25 cents each for the skins. The authorities of the above named counties should endeavor to put an end to this murdering business. While on the subject of deer it may be well to state that a young man connected with a well known law firm of this city, in which by the way there is some genuine sporting stock, while going out in the country a short time since carrying a rifle saw a buck and two does in a meadow, and without fear of the game law before his eyes shot and killed the buck, took a good look at it to see where his bullet struck, and then went off leaving the carcass for the coyotes. This shows the folly of carrying firearms when one has no use for them.

NO TROUT IN THE SCAPPOOSE.—A party of fishermen who visited Scappoose creek yesterday report that there is not a trout left in the stream within any reasonable distance from the railroad. About a mile above the bridge on the North fork, where the party struck the creek, they saw an interesting sight. Thousands of the fish common in the river here and called red horses or chisel mouths covered the riffles in the creek busy depositing their spawn in the gravel. A kick sent a dozen of them flying to the bank, where they presented a beautiful appearance as they kicked around, being adorned with bright red and black stripes particularly brilliant at this season. For quite a distance as the party fished down the creek every gravel bar was covered with these fish and every pool was crowded with them. Occasionally one would take a hook, but they were too intent with the business in hand to think or care much for fish worms. The Scappoose is a beautiful creek, but the well beaten path along its bank shows what has become of the trout. It is scarcely possible to go any more out from Portland and catch any decent kind of a string of fish and get home the same day.

SOUTHERN OREGON MINES.—Capt. Ankeney came in a few days since from the Sterling mine. He is as hearty as a buck and is happy as a sand boy. He says he has been putting in from twelve to fourteen hours per day in his mine and is going right back to tackle it again. This is likely to be a banner year for hydraulic miners in Southern Oregon. Capt. Ankeney says the pipes have been running continuously for ten months, and there is water on hand for three months more. He has sluiced out a cut half a mile in length, 100 feet in width and 70 feet deep right over the old river channel where the gold in the Sterling mine is hid. He expects to reach bedrock about the 10th of May, and is just as confident of finding the usual average of gold which has been found in the old channel wherever it has been opened as he is of getting down to the rock. Capt. Ankeney has always been one of Portland's most enterprising and liberal minded citizens, and every one who knows him hopes that when he gets down to bed rock he may find millions in it.

INLAND EMPIRE CROPS.—Hon. Philip Ritz of Walla Walla was in the city yesterday and left for home in the afternoon. Answering an OREGONIAN reporter's request for an item, Mr. Ritz said: With the prospect of the annexation of North Idaho to Washington—and the admittance to statehood at an early day—there is more interest taken in the country at present than in any territory in the United States. The crops never looked better at this time of the year than now. There will probably be 10 per cent more grain grown this year in the Inland Empire than ever before. The country is generally prosperous. Ritzville is growing, and is becoming one of the principal points on the Northern Pacific for people and supplies to reach the Big Bend country, as the route is the shortest and best. The prospects for fruit, including peaches, apricots and grapes, never was better.

WALKING FOR A WAGER.—A knot of young men, all of them fair athletes, were conversing one day last week in Frank Lynch's cigar stand on the benefit of a long walk before breakfast. There were numerous expressions of opinion as to how far a man could walk without discomfort. [illegible] talked as if he could do ten miles easy enough. The remainder were inclined to disagree with him, and the result of the discussion was that two young men laid a wager of $5 that Lynch could not walk from First and Alder to the White house and return before breakfast every morning for one week, he to be back by 8 o'clock. Lynch accepted the wager and [illegible] to commence one sixth of his task at 5 o'clock this morning.

AN OLD MEDAL.—An elderly grizzled man who was a passenger on the Kalama train yesterday exhibited a silver medal which he said he found while driving an ox team [illegible] the Black Hills about ten years ago. It is [illegible] larger than a silver dollar and had [illegible] of President Madison on one side. On the other [illegible] hands clasped [illegible] "Peace and Friendship" [illegible]

PRISONER [illegible] CAPTURED.—Sheriff [illegible] arrived here yesterday having in charge [illegible] [illegible] papers [illegible]

IN FEMALE ATTIRE.—[illegible] surprise and several persons [illegible] that it was an insane woman escaped [illegible] gave chase. He will hardly try the role of male impersonation again in a hurry.

EASTER SUNDAY.—Oregon, whose spring weather is always delightful, never had [illegible] Easter day than yesterday. [illegible] bright sunshine, gentle northwest breeze and a temperature just cool enough and just warm enough to be called perfect. Every place of worship at morning service was crowded, and in [illegible] every [illegible] there was a profusion of flowers from the [illegible] the garden and the conservatory. All the sermons [illegible] were appropriate to the great event in all Christendom, and the contribution boxes received far more than their customary tribute.

ADDED TO THE LIST.—The following new names have been added to the membership of the Pennsylvania association: J. R. Murray, Allegheny county; J. H. Strickler, York; Hon. J. B. Congle, Chester; Joseph Nichols, Clinton; Wm. [illegible], Bradford; J. W. Reedy, Berks; Prof. Frank Rigler, Philadelphia; Rev. W. R. Stevenson, Washington and Westmoreland; W. W. Wetzler, Centre; Edwin R. Fish, Luzerne; Harry R. McCully, Philadelphia; J. J. McCartney, Blair; Geo. H. Kinzer, Lancaster. Persons desirous of becoming members will please send their address to the secretary, Portland, Or.

PRISONERS EN ROUTE.—The two Fields boys and young Sinclair, indicted for burglary at Kalama, and who have been for some time in the Vancouver jail, were taken down to Kalama on Saturday by Sheriff Holmes for trial. The Fields boys belong to Kalama, but Sinclair is believed to be from Victoria. Two of the trio are bright, intelligent looking fellows who should be in other business than burglary and robbery.

ANOTHER NEW BLOCK.—Mr. Henry Failing will erect this season a three story brick business building on the northwest corner of First and Oak. It will not be quite so ornamental as the Union block, but more substantial. The contract for the iron work has been let to the Willamette Iron works and the remainder of the work will be let at an early day. It is understood that the ground floor has already been leased.

FOR CONVENIENCE OF SHIPPERS.—While the steamer Telephone is undergoing repairs, the steamer Salem will run in her place on the Astoria route. The Telephone will probably be out within ten days. In the meantime she will receive a thorough overhauling, repainting, etc., and be better than ever prepared to accommodate the public when she again resumes her place.

NEW LODGE.—Wasco lodge No. [illegible] was organized at Wasco on April [illegible] Prof. Wm. [illegible] Lurst, with twenty nine charter members. Following are the officers: [illegible] Madden [illegible] Miss Dora [illegible] McNeal [illegible] Rev L Barrett [illegible] McAlister [illegible] Miss Anna Waite [illegible]. The lodge meets Tuesday nights.

MISSIONARY [illegible] ALASKA.—The Rev O Parker [illegible] congregation at Eugene City [illegible] mission at St Michael's Island, Norton sound, Alaska, and Bishop Morris has arranged for a farewell missionary service for him [illegible] church this evening. Addresses will be delivered by Bishop Paddock, Bishop Morris and Mr Parker. The public are cordially invited. Services at 8 o'clock.

U S CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will announce [illegible] this morning in the case of Brunson vs the Walla Walla Valley railway company on the motion to [illegible] to the state court, and in the case of the New England Mortgage Security company vs Martin et al on the exceptions [illegible]

INTER DIOCESAN CONVOCATION.—Missionary convocations are to be held by Bishops Morris and Paddock at Adams and Weston in Umatilla county on the [illegible] and [illegible] April and at Walla Walla on the [illegible] of May.

THE LUMBER TRADE

An Unexpected Advance in Rates Cuts off from Portland a Big Market

For the past six months the lumbering industry of Portland has been stimulated to a very satisfactory degree through reductions by the Union Pacific railway and by others in Nebraska and Colorado cities. The O R & N and Short Line, whose policy [illegible] to foster manufacturing in this city, made [illegible] and two of the largest mills, namely W[illegible] and the North Pacific, have been able to employ more men than they did during [illegible] 1884-85. It is true the profits are small—very small—only enough to justify them in keeping their machinery in motion, but they don't lose money. A few weeks since both mills by hard work secured some large customers in Denver, and in anticipation of this business ordered a large supply of logs. The Union Pacific had joined the O R & N in a rate of 50 cents per 100 lbs to Denver, and [illegible] was thought this would be the permanent rate. [illegible] about ten days ago after [illegible] loaded and were awaiting [illegible] was received from the Union Pacific that the rate would be 65 cents per hundred. After much telegraphic correspondence the first 24 carloads were taken at the agreed rate of fifty cents, but no further shipments will be taken at that rate.

This action shuts Portland out of Denver. The advance of 15 cents per hundred is $1 85 a 1000 feet, and this city with the additional cost can not compete with other markets accessible to the metropolis of Colorado. The logs which had been bought in anticipation of the new trade must wait until local demand calls for their manufacture into lumber. The Union Pacific did not raise the rate voluntarily, but were coerced into it by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, with whom they have some sort of a pooling arrangement on certain Colorado business.

If the raise in rates affected only the proprietors of two sawmills the matter would be scarcely worth fighting for, but it affects directly between 300 and 400 mechanics and laboring men in Oregon and Washington. With only the local traffic to depend on, each of the two mills would employ between forty and fifty men. If they could supply the trade already established in Colorado they could give employment to between 125 and 150 men. In the logging camps down the river there would be like increase of employment, while indirectly many others would be benefited. The president, general manager and traffic manager of the Union Pacific are expected to arrive in Portland within a week, and it is hoped they will look on the matter in the right light and restore the 50 cent rate regardless of other lines.

LANDS IN THE N P AND OREGON CENTRAL GRANT

A View of the Matter Not in Accordance with Commissioner Sparks' View

Last Thursday THE OREGONIAN published a letter from Gen Sparks, commissioner of the land office, to C C Shepherd of Skamokawa, instructing him how to proceed in relation to lands bought from the Northern Pacific, which lands the commissioner claims are in the forfeited Oregon Central grant. Mr Schulze, general land agent of the Northern Pacific, answering an inquiry by an OREGONIAN reporter as to what he thought of Gen Sparks' letter, said:

That letter is thoroughly characteristic of the autocrat of the general land office, excepting in one particular. For once Mr Sparks admits of having made a blunder in not directing the register and receiver at Vancouver to give notice of what he considers a restoration to the public domain of the lands in question. This blunder on the part of the general land office, which has given rise to a great deal of land jumping, will prove serious to a number of settlers should Mr. Sparks be sustained in the position which he has taken in this matter against the Northern Pacific railroad. It is not within the power of Mr Sparks to give the injured parties redress, although he holds out some vague promises in that direction.

Mr Sparks has left unsaid in his letter a good many things which he should have stated—for instance, that he failed to notify the Northern Pacific railroad company of his order of restoration of the lands in question, which the rules of the department required him to do. Assistant Secretary Jenks gave the autocratic commissioner a severe reprimand a few months ago for a similar omission in a case against the Atlantic & Pacific railroad. Mr Sparks should have further stated in his letter that he had no authority to restore any lands to the public domain without the approval of the secretary of the interior. He should have stated that a large part of those lands was regularly selected by and certified to the Northern Pacific railroad company years ago. He should have stated that the Northern Pacific railroad company had appealed to the secretary of the interior from his decision rejecting selections made by the Northern Pacific railroad company of the balance of the lands, and that pending this appeal all action by himself and his subordinates should have been suspended. In fact, having confessed to one blunder, the honorable commissioner might as well have acknowledged a number of others equally glaring. The [illegible] of the commissioner that until patents issue for any lands under the grant to the Northern Pacific railroad company the legal title remains in the United States is a new theory and [illegible] at all in harmony with numerous decisions of the United States supreme court and other courts. However, the general has very little respect for the decisions of the courts [illegible] as is evidenced by his persistent attempts to override them.

Mr Schulze stated further that if the secretary of the interior should sustain Commissioner Sparks, that the matter [illegible] carried into the courts [illegible]

BASEBALL YESTERDAY

About 700 people were in attendance at the Oaks baseball park yesterday afternoon. Two practice games were played. The Portlands and [illegible] had a short bout, and at [illegible] the Willamettes crossed bats with the Stars, who presented Tierney and Creegan as their battery. The batting on both sides was rather weak. But for a costly error by Coleman in the seventh inning, whereby a run was scored, and another in the 8th by Nagle, who after making a beautiful stop of a hot grounder threw wild to Creegan, letting in three runs, the Stars would have held their opponents down to two. But it was only a practice game anyway, and the first time the Stars have been together this season. Creegan is in first class shape, but has not gained his second base yet. The Stars looked very neat in their fresh suits. The following is the score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Stars	6	1	1	0	0	1	0	0	—	9
Willamettes	0	1	0	0	1	3	2	0	0	—7

Base hits, Stars 6, Willamettes 5. Base on balls, Willamettes 2. Struck out, Tierney, 10, Wills, 2.

THE EAST SIDE.

Two Children Lost and Found—Drunken Brawl—Odd Fellows' Celebration—Etc.

Yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock Jessie and Clarence Richardson, whose parents reside on the section line road about eight miles east of town, wandered from home in quest of flowers. The mother missing the children shortly afterward searched for them carefully in the immediate vicinity of the premises. Presuming that some of the neighbors had taken the little fellows in, but little was thought of their absence until late in the afternoon. Mr Richardson, assisted by several friends, scoured the country to no purpose until about 10 o'clock last night. In the meantime a young gentleman by the name of Gray, residing near Mt Tabor, found the children in the vicinity of Lone Fir cemetery and brought them to this city and turned them over to officer Atterbury. But little could be gleaned from the children in consequence of their extreme youth, the boy being but five and the girl three years old. However, the officer took the little ones in charge, gave them some supper at the Home hotel, and obtaining a buggy started out in search of their home. Mr Atterbury, following what little information the children could give, at last learned that two children answering the description of the two waifs were lost on the section line road, proceeded thither and restored them to their now nearly frantic parents. Mr Richardson was formerly night watchman at Smith Bros' mill in Portland.

EASTER CONCERT

The M E church at the corner of Ninth and I streets, this city, was last evening crowded to its fullest capacity, the occasion being an Easter concert. Prof W A Wetzell, chorister, assisted by the officers and teachers of the Sunday school, on Saturday richly decorated the auditorium in flowers in every conceivable shape, from crosses, harps and anchors to mottos and heavy evergreen hangings. The participants all did so exceedingly well that any invidious distinctions are unnecessary. The following is the programme: Music, cornet; [illegible] by the school; Scripture lesson and prayer by the pastor, S P Wilson; song by the school, "Easter Dawn"; recitation by Mrs. J W [illegible]'s class; "Old Easter Anthem," [illegible]; "The Empty Tomb," by Miss Craig's class; chorus by the school; duet, "Blest Abode," Miss Emma Kolb and Prof Wetzell; recitation, "In Vision of Angels," Mrs O J Ward's class; quartette, "Revives Again," Messrs Marshall and Wetzel, Mrs W M Simpson and Miss E Robb; recitation, "Heralds of Joy," Leander Wells' class; chorus by the school; recitation, "The Weeping Mary," Mrs C J Struble's class; anthem by the choir; recitation, "The Evening Walk," by W R Struble's class; recitation by Miss Ida Hanson's class; quartette, "Come From Mount," Messrs Marshall and Wetzel, Mrs F Haines and Miss Robb; "The Evening Meal," by Mrs D F Lawton's class; recitation, "A Glorious Meeting," Miss Amie Gray; chorus by the school; Benediction.

ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES

Orient lodge No 17, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of this city will hold interesting exercises in commemoration of the sixty seventh anniversary of the order in America this evening. A short musical and literary programme has been arranged for the occasion. Hon. M C George has been engaged to deliver the oration. Hon John Kenworthy will give valuable and interesting statistics relative to the order. Dr S F Joseph will deliver the address of welcome and introduce the orator. Refreshments will be served at the close of the exercises. Invitations are to members of Orient lodge and their friends and visiting brethren. The exercises will take place in Odd Fellows' hall, corner of Tenth and J streets, commencing at 8 o'clock.

A DRUNKEN BRAWL

Several young men who were more or less intoxicated last evening engaged in a disgraceful row in the saloon in John Fay's building at the corner of I and Water streets. The encounter was vicious and noisy in the extreme, and the contestants fought all the way from the interior of the premises to the street. This is a fine opportunity for a test case on the closing saloons on Sunday ordinance, and should be prosecuted. Some people are just foolish enough to believe that all the saloons in this city keep only the front doors closed on Sunday, while a flourishing business is done by the back door system.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

A Mr Reed, who deals intermittently in spiritualistic exposes, seances and groceries on U street near the Jefferson street ferry landing, was assaulted in a most cowardly manner by a drunken man who happened to wander near his premises last evening. Later in Mr Reed was seeking the city marshal for the purpose of having his victim [illegible] for being drunk and disorderly. The officers being otherwise engaged, no arrests.

NOTES

Mrs W R Struble spent the day yesterday at the farm of A R Shipley, Esq, near Oswego.

Hon H C Myers, formerly of East Portland, but now of Blalocks, W T, is in the city on business.

Col J K Phillips was on the streets for the first time Saturday since his recent narrow escape from murder.

The musicale concert under the direction of Prof J Frank Walters will occur on May the [illegible]th at Neppach's hall.

Quite a number of our citizens took advantage of the fine weather Saturday and went on the excursion to the Cascades on board the Wide West.

[illegible] G James, the five year old son of H M James of Albina, died yesterday morning. The funeral will occur at 2 o'clock to-day, Rev S [illegible] Wilson officiating.

Mrs Stephens, wife of Uncle James B Stephens, who has been seriously ill for several days past, is reported a little better this morning, but as she is within her 81st year it is thought she may not recover.

The Easter services at St. David's church yesterday were impressive and interesting. The church was exquisitely decorated with flowers, evergreens, etc. Rev J Wistar Morris delivered an address appropriate to the occasion.

Completion and Cost of the Panama Canal

Report by John Bigelow to the New York Chamber of Commerce—Uncertain Elements in the Work

In an elaborate and extensive report sent some days ago to the New York chamber of commerce John Bigelow tells a great deal that he saw and heard on his recent visit to Colon as a representative of that body to inspect the Panama canal. He qualifies statements with ample statistics but on account of the experimental nature of the work and the impossibility of making more than a guess as to what remains to be done and the means that can be procured to do it, Mr Bigelow does not venture an opinion as to the time when the canal will be completed, nor as to its total cost, nor as to the revenue it can earn, nor even to the probabilities of the required means being provided for its prosecution.

The project of the canal as Mr Bigelow defines it, contemplates the connection of the waters of the Atlantic at Colon with the waters of the Pacific at Panama by a canal of uniform level without locks or tunnels and broad enough and deep enough for the transit of ships of the first class from the open sea at either end to the open sea at the other without any necessary interruption or detention. This involves a canal 46½ miles long through the valley of the Chagres 72 feet wide at the bottom with 28 to 29 feet of navigable water. The estimated excavation amounts to 120,000,000 cubic yards. The total excavation to the close of January last was 14 [illegible] 856 cubic meters leaving to be excavated 10[illegible] cubic meters. Should the excavations through the remaining months of this year average as high as for January it will leave in round numbers 91 500 000 cubic meters yet to be excavated or less than four fifths of the whole.

But the work presents such a complicated problem and is embarrassed by so large a proportion of uncertain factors that given the number of men dredges and excavators employed and the daily cost, Mr Bigelow finds it impossible to predict whether the average excavation can be kept up or not when the canal will be finished or what it will cost. The work is prosecuted in a foreign state under a weak and unsettled government in [illegible] unhealthy region subject to earthquakes where everything necessary for construction must be imported and where the country furnishes practically nothing but the site for the canal. "This work," says Mr Bigelow, "which for its inevitable cost and if accomplished for the magnitude of its material results has no parallel among the enterprises in all history, is attended by so many uncertain and unworkable conditions that the estimates of the most gifted and experienced engineers are at best but conjectures. Every step that is taken therefore is more or less experimental and defies any attempt at reduction to scientific equation."

Mr Bigelow classifies under four heads the difficulties with which the company must contend. First, the control of the waters of the Chagres river, which in the rainy season if unrestrained is liable to flood the larger portion of the canal every year. This river with a normal flow of only between 450 and 500 cubic feet per second in the dry season has been known in recent years to discharge between 60 000 and 70 000 cubic feet per second in the wet season, and to rise from 40 to 50 feet above its normal level. No canal with such a neighbor at large Mr Bigelow points out could live through a single rainy season. Two plans for its subjugation are under discussion: one an enormous dam three fourths of a mile long and 140 feet high, across the headwaters of the Chagres at Gamboa, and the other to dispense with the dam altogether and enlarge the derivative channels of the river so as to carry off the great volume of water. At present the presumptions are all in favor of the dam. It is not considered impracticable as an engineering problem. The difference between the two plans proposed is rather a question of cost than of practicability.

The second difficulty with which Mr Bigelow deals is the cut through the Andes at Culebra involving the removal of 22,000,000 cubic yards of earth and rock within a space of less than one mile and a half. He says: "I did not hear of any insuperable difficulty in the accomplishment of this work but I can not but think that M de Lesseps will be disappointed in his calculations, both in regard to the time and the cost of it. It is certainly not progressing at present at a rate which warrants the hope of its completion in 1889." The third difficulty mentioned is in keeping the Panama section of the canal from being filled in by the ocean and the Rio Grande. To keep up the force requisite for the mechanical operations to be carried on at this point will prove extremely difficult on account of its insalubrity.

But in the fourth and last difficulty Mr Bigelow finds more uncertainty than in any other and he calls it "the axis on which the fortunes of this enterprise revolve." It is the problem of securing the amount of labor required to carry on the work at practicable rates. The swamps the long rainy season and the pestilential atmosphere mean death to all but the native races of the tropics of which there is a limited and at best a lazy supply. When the canal was begun unskilled labor was paid 90 cents a day. At present the wages of blacks are $2 50 and $2 75 a day. White mechanics get $5 gold and yet it is impossible to get enough men. Mr Bigelow says: "This is the number on the rolls (12 000) but a suspicion seemed to prevail on the isthmus that even this number is considerably exaggerated. Of course with 12 000 effective men or with twice that number I do not see how any one can cherish the expectation of completing the canal in 1889." To Mr Bigelow the situation suggests the logic of speedily replacing men with machines. From recent orders for improved dredging apparatus and other mechanical appliances he believes that the canal company is alive to this consideration.

In discussing the financial situation and prospects Mr Bigelow finds the receipts of the company from all sources including the late call of 125f per share from the stockholders to be about $1[illegible]0 000 000. He had no definite information of the sum already expended but refers to the vice president as authority that the company had sufficient in its treasury to carry it through the current year. "If the figures he procured can be trusted about half the estimated cost of the canal will have been expended at the close of the year while at least four fifths of the excavation, not to speak of supplementary or precautionary work, will remain to be executed." But Mr Bigelow adds: "It would be very misleading to infer the cost of the work remaining to be done from the apparent cost of what has been done. Fully two-thirds of the expenses already incurred are in the form of plant which will involve no future expense except for interest and deterioration. No doubt some of the money has been injudiciously expended, but what great work whether of a public or private character has escaped this reproach?" Mr Bigelow thinks that it will require very robust faith to believe that the canal can be opened from sea to sea for an additional sum no larger than the net proceeds of a new loan of $120 000,000 which M de Lesseps is now soliciting, but he knows of no person who is competent to say with authority that it cannot be done.

Once opened, the writer of the report says it seems probable that the canal can be kept in order and operated at a smaller percentage upon the lowest estimate of its earnings than any other artificial waterway in the world. Whether the revenues will ever remunerate the stockholders for its cost is a question on which he has not sufficient data to form an opinion. Mr Bigelow submits in detail estimates of the amount of tonnage that would pass through the canal and speaks in a general way of its importance in securing to the United States forever the incontestable advantage of position in the impending contest of nations for the supremacy of the seas. "No nation," he says, "would feel so promptly as the United States the influence of a canal that would shorten by some 8000 miles the voyage between her Atlantic and Pacific seaports."

Toward the conclusion the report says: "To determine when the canal will be finished one must know first how much work is yet to be done and second how much money the company will be able and disposed to spend annually upon it, and, third, how many laborers or their equivalent in machines it can command. That information has not yet been revealed to man. No one living can even now give anything more than a guess as to the amount of work to be done. * * *

"All these uncertain elements are rendered more uncertain by the financial situation of the company. It is about entering the market for a new loan of 600 000 000f. The price it will have to pay for this money is uncertain and the price of a future loan if one should become necessary is still more uncertain. Till the money is secured and the cost of getting it ascertained it would be about as safe to predict the quarter in which the wind will be setting next Christmas day at St Petersburg, as the time when the canal will be finished or what it will cost. * * *

That the canal will now be prosecuted to its completion without any very serious interruption is fairly to be presumed for too large a proportion of its cost has already been incurred to make a retreat as good policy as an advance. Even if abandoned by the company the contractors themselves would probably find it for their interest to take and finish it."

REPLY TO REV L VERBAAG

The Roman Catholic Church and the Public Schools Again

EAST PORTLAND, April [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In answering Mr Verhaag once more permit me to say that if this discussion is to be run into a petty little piece of dirt throwing, then I am done with the whole matter, for the writer does not profess to have either the ability or disposition to stoop to the low level of Mr Verhaag's last article.

And right here let me remark that as to my sermon of April 18 called by this holy father a "stump speech," it was not heard by him and consequently he knows nothing about it. For this reason I pay no attention to anything he reports me to have said, and in proof of this allow me to call your attention to the fact that in his first article he makes me say that "Roman sin is the same now that it was 2000 years ago," and in his second he makes me say "1400 years ago." You will notice however that he uses the word "Catholicity." But let that be as it may, what I have said I am perfectly willing to repeat and if this holy father will come and hear me I will promise him a reserved seat. Now therefore let it be distinctly understood that I shall not notice one sentence he utters concerning what I said in my so-called "stump speech" from the fact that either his reporter is a very poor one or he is himself manifestly dishonest. And in either case is not worth notice. As to Catholic teachers being prohibited from teaching in the public schools, simply because they are Catholics, and the charge that Protestants introduced into the public schools "sectarian hymns," "sectarian books," "a sectarian bible," etc., is simply begging the question. Every public school director in the land will, perhaps, bear me out in the statement that in many parts of our country there are very worthy teachers in our schools who are members of the Roman Catholic church. But so far as sectarianism is concerned, the very point the writer insists upon is conceded by this priest in the charge he makes against the schools. The bible believed in and taught by Luther Calvin Wesley and indeed the entire Protestant world is to the Roman Catholic church a sectarian bible. And why? Simply because Roman Catholicism is not found in it. And therefore any hymn or song or book found or used in our public schools that does not teach Romanism is pronounced sectarian. But of course any bible hymn or other book the Roman Catholic church should see fit to put into these schools would not be sectarian. Certainly not—here lies the difficulty. Roman Catholicism can't stand the light these schools turn in upon them; then let it be understood that there is but one objection to the public schools that Roman Catholicism can and as a matter of fact does urge and that is—that they are not under the entire control of the Romish church. And hence Pope Pius IX declared some years ago substantially as follows: "The Romish church has the right to interfere in the discipline of the public schools and in the arrangement of the studies of the public schools and in the choice of the teachers for these schools. That the public schools open to all children for the education of the young should be under the control of the Romish church and should not be subject to the civil power nor made to conform to the opinions of the age." And since, according to this priest, the Roman Catholic church never changes but remains always the same, it is plain to all that we have found the head of this glittering reptile.

Is it safe to allow the pope to govern primary schools in a free nation? Ask Spain, ask Mexico, ask the little republics of South America.

[illegible]

Mr Dexter A Hawkins says in the Christian Advocate [illegible] "While traveling in Ireland a few years ago I found standing by the roadside near one of these school houses a Catholic priest with a switch in his hand with which he scourged home the Catholic children as they approached the national school house. I did not suppose such a spectacle would ever be seen in our country. But I learn that a child in Massachusetts has within a few weeks been scourged upon his naked back by a Catholic priest for attending a free public school." Did the writer draw upon his imagination for facts? We leave that for an unprejudiced public to judge.

BAKER COUNTY

An Account of its Mineral and other Resources—Interesting Descriptive Matter

Letter in New York Evening Post.

The valley of Powder is twenty miles long and eight wide, the largest valley in the county, and here counties are not small. This one is 160 by 200 miles, reaching Nevada on one side, Idaho on another, and taking a generous portion of the interior. The entire land from Snake river to Nevada has no rival as a grazing country. Here pasture to-day over $1 500 000 worth of live stock.

The whole country pays tribute to Baker City, which is the county seat and situated at the extreme southern limit of the valley. It is a bright, brisk, progressive and well off town—so much so that one is surprised at the perversity which here, as in Butte, Miles City, Helena and other places old enough and large enough to know and do better, tolerates and legalizes the selection of the most prominent and valuable business sites for the iniquity of gambling places, saloons and a store. [illegible] hotels, invariably the big round card tables, with their stacks of chips and cards, are more conspicuous than in the office. In the stores, offices, and even the banks, stud horse poker (the kind of a community whose reigning sport beats [illegible] like that) is played day or night. [illegible] the streets are strewn with cards [illegible] at all hours [illegible] infested with hideous women.

But of the mine. Of these many of many kind. [illegible] point of variety I have ever visited and it has been collected entirely from the county. It is a marvellous exhibition for any county. It contains from the [illegible] Heath district [illegible] of [illegible] 1 00 pounds [illegible] gold and $11 [illegible] to the ton [illegible] Elk creek [illegible] Oregon from which $1 00 [illegible] and $500 in gold to the ton have been obtained [illegible]

[illegible]

As a [illegible] never before [illegible] contrasts [illegible] wonderful assays [illegible] mineral yielding [illegible] millions in [illegible] years [illegible] No [illegible] bears such a record [illegible] Think of a locality where within a radius of sixty miles there are over [illegible] mining districts, where riding in any direction one finds himself among roads [illegible] where color [illegible] doubtless [illegible] there have been [illegible] Here and there [illegible] temporary. [illegible] out of 20 8[illegible] cubic yards of [illegible] 1 000 in gold dust. The deep gravel at the [illegible] and its slopes is [illegible] as high as $4 00 000 to the acre, and I visited last month a ranch which by irrigation yields forty to fifty bushels of wheat to the acre in summer in one part and in another during the winter pan gold to even greater profit. Nor shall I soon forget the husband and wife we happened upon in their little home between Baker and Sparta who handed from the mountain side and worked by a little arastra in their door yard from $10 000 to $18,000 worth of gold year after year. Yet the whole country is scarred with abandoned claims even where the indications are richest. I remember what an expert from the famous Calumet and Hecla mine in Michigan, who had been drawn hither by rumors about the Copper King, said to me as we picked our way amid the boulders down a lateral spur of the Eagle mountains whither we had been on a visit to the locality.

"It can not be that there is a permanent deposit, for the bed is quartz and quartz never yet carried copper."

And yet none of us had ever seen a more bewildering sight than the brilliant discolorations of the cliff's facade—the white quartz starred with outcrops of gray green and peacock copper which we had been measuring all the day. It is a strange country full of lines and legends, and this same Eagle range with its great ghost the White Peak, about which centers so much mystery and story, is the Caucasus of the Occident where spells and genii dwell.

Mining at best is a severe discipline for brain and nerve and makes more madmen than any other vocation. But in this region even the half science which has resulted from experience is valueless. Meanwhile the woods are full of stories of great finds and magnificent prospects. It was [illegible] I found on [illegible] He [illegible] as follows:

"Mining, I realize it is a good deal like spiritualism. I've been trying to be a spiritualist [illegible] for twenty years. I do believe in [illegible] somehow [illegible] Every now and then I fix up a simple test [illegible] I will [illegible] I'll believe. But I can't ever get any such proof as that. They [illegible] but show me something else much stranger than anything I've seen before that I just keep on. Just so I've always found it in these leads."

Now back among the mountains adjacent to the Northern Pacific and those still further north [illegible] are attended with more certainty. The Selkirk and the Coeur d'Alene are [illegible] of the precious metal [illegible] the Kootenai and the [illegible] and drifting, still I was may [illegible] the country has its [illegible] Northern [illegible] What I have [illegible] this lower country and many of Baker [illegible] [illegible] hematite and [illegible] copper lead free milling gold [illegible] silver [illegible] gold bearing graphite and tellurium. From those great quartz ledges by the grinding of glaciers, by chemical action and the watershed have in [illegible] the placers of Baker [illegible]

CHARLES F WOODRUFF

The Joke Mightier than Learning

Atlanta Constitution

Mark Twain has made more money by his pen than any other writer, except Sir Walter Scott. Milton, Addison, Swift, Wordsworth, Southey, Shelley and Coleridge were beggars by the side of this literary Croesus. Mark found out at the beginning of his career that the public would not pay for instruction and good advice. He saw that the people wanted fun. They wanted to be entertained and amused. So he put on the jester's cap and bells and went into the harlequin business. Result, a big bank account, purple and fine linen.

"Nip It in the Bud!"

Sad to say, many a good thing attains to nothing more than a fair beginning. On the other hand it is a matter for congratulation that the growth of some evil things may be also promptly frustrated. A large proportion of the cases of the most wide spread and fatal of diseases—consumption have their inception in nasal catarrh. Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy is pleasant, soothing and effectual. Try it. It has cured thousands. All druggists.

COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, April 24

Two cars of eastern apples—260 barrels—were thrown on the market to-day selling at from $1 to $4 per barrel as to condition. A good portion of the two lots arrived in poor shape.

New York mail dates note advances in pepper, nutmegs and cloves. Coal oil was dull and easy at 8⅝@8¾c as to brand. Boiling grades of molasses advanced. Coffee ruled quiet. Brazil showing no change, the option market having an easier tendency.

New York advices of the 17th inst, a date prior to the refinery strike, reported raw sugar is firm and active while refined was one eighth higher. The report says of raw: "The business transacted in supplies on the spot has been somewhat limited and the sales of West India grades afloat and for shipment have been restricted by moderate offerings and the high views of holders, but the feature of the market has been the heavy business transacted in European beet, which is said to be the largest in the history of the trade for any corresponding week. A noteworthy feature has been the placing of several complete steamer cargoes. Refiners appear to have been fairly supplied with spot supplies and hence the moderate demand in this position, but the holders of West India grades, particularly Cuba, have tenaciously demanded prices that buyers have been unwilling to pay, while the free offerings of beet have rendered them more available and resulted in a [illegible]

Overland receipts include [illegible] bbls [illegible] hams, 8 butts tobacco, [illegible] 105 cs syrup, 30 cs canned goods, [illegible] boots and shoes, 8 bxs coffee mills, 30 half bxs [illegible] piano, 10 bls bagging [illegible] axes, 51 pkgs wagon material, car wagons, 2 cars barbed wire, car [illegible] harvesters headers.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours [illegible] ctls wheat, 1166 bbls flour, 1650 ctls oats, [illegible] barley, [illegible] sks potatoes, 6 lbs wool, [illegible] 13 cs eggs, [illegible] cs butter, [illegible] cattle, [illegible] sheep. Also [illegible] ctls wheat, 100 bbls flour, 6 000 lbs wool [illegible] from the eastern section.

[illegible]

WHEAT—Absolutely nothing [illegible] in the local market has very little [illegible] Business here is very much of a lose of the season [illegible] than the ordinary [illegible] of wheat is yet in the interior. Holders generally want a [illegible] At present [illegible] 1 37½ and Walla Walla no less. Receipts of valley will doubtless continue [illegible] this trade is [illegible] needed to complete ship[illegible]

FLOUR—Market quiet and unchanged [illegible] demand is [illegible] fair.

OATS—Steady at 36@40c for best feed [illegible] Trade is of a quiet character but the market is firm and the outlook [illegible] weakened.

POTATOES—Advices steady. Buyers here are not importing and seldom go beyond 40@50c per bushel for Garnets and Burbanks, although for local purposes more is wanted.

PROVISIONS—Eastern hams and bacon in sacks are coming in quite freely and competing with local [illegible] Values are hardly steady as last quoted.

POULTRY—Supplies of chickens, ducks and turkeys have moved quite readily, chickens at $[illegible]@4, ducks at $5@6 and turkeys at 17@18c. A lessened demand is looked for with next week.

EGGS—Liberal arrivals, but the demand has been good with sales at 11c. Easter demands close to-day and nothing good can be said of the prospect for next week.

ONIONS—A very firm market rules and an advance on 3c is not impossible for a really choice quality.

HIDES—The market is very quiet, exhibiting no change either in feature or prices.

HOPS—Eastern markets quiet with consumers indifferent to offerings and business low. The general situation last is unsatisfactory to dealers and the tendency in buyers' favor.

WOOL—Eastern Oregon is coming forward with more freedom but there is nothing like a season able movement. The market quite fails to develop itself and dealers are inclined to look for a dull trade for a time. Our New York mail advices notes a larger volume of transactions, the market continuing to present a quiet appearance. Foreign wool arrives in liberal quantities and holders of competing domestic grades find it difficult to [illegible] except at concessions from quoted prices.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 24.—Government bonds were dull and steady. To-day stocks were very dull. Union Pacific opened ⅛ up at 50¾ and developed decided strength during the morning, selling as high as 52. Later sales were made between that price and 51¼ until late in the afternoon when it broke to 50⅛ and closed at 50¾, a net advance [illegible]

The strength early in the day was attributed to the covering of shorts by a prominent operator who has been a bear for a long time past. The whole list at the opening was from ⅛ to ¼ higher than it closed on Thursday, with Lake Shore ⅜ higher on an announcement that peace had been established between the officials and switchmen of the road, but it at no time sold at more than ¼ above its opening and closed ½ lower at 81¼ [illegible] There were no other important changes. Total sales for the week were only [illegible] shares but business consisted [illegible] 98 000 shares last week.

The Mutual of [illegible] Mining shares were active and weak. Sales: Sutro 10, Bulwer 50. La Crosse [illegible] $1 10.

MARK LANE REVIEW

LONDON, April 24.—The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the British grain trade says: The weather is milder and late seeding is being rapidly pushed. Occasional showers would be welcome. It is feared that the wire worm will prove rather troublesome. All vegetation is exceedingly backward. Business during the past week has been of a holiday character. Trade in foreign wheats was slow but prices were firm owing to the smallness of imports. Prices of corn favored sellers. There were two arrivals and two sales, two cargoes were withdrawn and none remained. Trade forward is very firm. On Monday there will be no market.

That Tired Feeling

Everybody knows what "that tired feeling" is. It afflicts nearly every one at this time of year, being caused by the depressing effects of the changing season [illegible] debilitated condition of the body. The refreshing, toning, invigorating influences for which the system appeals will be found in Hood's Sarsaparilla, the reliable tonic and blood purifier. Give it a trial.

I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla when I was so weak I could not do my work. It has made a new person of me. All I ask is any one to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and see its good effect. It takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it. MRS C A M HUBBARD, North Chili, N Y.

Strength and Appetite.

I have had Hood's Sarsaparilla with such benefit as to astonish my friends. I have renewed my strength, my appetite is good, my cough is growing better. I feel like a different person. MRS A P [illegible] Marlboro, Mass.

I could not sleep, and in the morning had hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite and my face was broken out with pimples. I procured a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon began to sleep soundly, could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved. R A SANFORD, Kent, O.
